

New York Veterinary Foundation is an Official Sponsor of the 2010 Hampton Classic Horse Show

PLAINVIEW, NEW YORK 5-13-10– The New York Veterinary Foundation (NYVF) is pleased to announce their sponsorship of the 2010 Hampton Classic Horse Show held in Bridgehampton, NY, from Sunday, August 29, through Sunday, September 5. NYVF has invited the talented medical team of Long Island Veterinary Specialists (LIVS) to present a daily program called “Ask the Vet”, where LIVS experts offer seminars and workshops, plus answer attendee’s questions about their pets’ health and well being. NYVF has also invited equine veterinarians, farriers, professional dog trainers and other professionals to offer seminars and workshops.

NYVF was created to bridge the knowledge gap between the human and veterinary medical communities. The foundation funds programs that allow organizations to pioneer surgical procedures and medical treatments for conditions that affect both humans and animals, and that offer educational opportunities to the public and medical community.

NYVF is also partnering with researchers from the Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine to study various conditions that affect both humans and their pets. The foundation also supports service dogs for homeland security, law enforcement and the special needs communities. They fund research studies that help maintain the health and fitness of the dogs and health-related training for the handlers and officers.

